Vanderbilt Center for Radiation Oncology Program in Radiation Therapy

Before embarking on a career, it is prudent to have a thorough understanding of what is required in your chosen field. To assure that each Radiation Therapy student has an opportunity to understand a therapist's daily routine, the Vanderbilt Center for Radiation Oncology's Radiation Therapy Program requires each applicant to spend at least 20 hours observing in a radiation oncology department. This time must be spent observing actual patients being set up and treated.

Thank you for allowing this applicant to observe in your radiation oncology center. Your participation helps to guarantee the quality of your future co-workers.

If you have any questions or comments about this observation or the Program, please contact the Program Director at the department telephone number listed above.
